Justification

In ancient Montroigian, the denominated sharp sounds were abundant ([p], [t], [k], [r]) in contrast to smooth sounds ([b], [d], [g], [ʎ]). However, through time the language eroded like stone and sharp sounds were substituted by their smooth respectives, except for the [r] sound. This is also reflected in the writing system.

Grammar

- Base words can be 4 letters long at most.
- Words are combined to form new words.
 - First nouns, then adjectives. First verbs, then adverbs.
 - The last word in a compound cannot be a verb.
 - Compounds are not always literal interpretations of their base words, and when using a compound word inside of a larger compound word, the individual compounds retain their own meaning rather than the meaning of their base words.
- Sentence order: Conjunction (+preposition), article, Subject (+adjectives and preposition), verb (+adverbs), object and extra information.
 - The Conjunction, article, extra information are not necessary to make a complete sentence.
- Words are not pluralized, instead the article before it is. The only exceptions to this are pronouns, which can be plural with no article, and certain words like Занс
- A lack of an article before a noun indicates a use of the English equivalent of "a" or "an".
 - не Бодe is "the building" and Бодe is "a building"
- The verb "ser" (to be) is the only case where attaching an adjective on the end will keep it as an adjective and not make it an adverb.

Identification

Type	Traits
Noun	Initial letter is upper case
Verb	-r or -ar (if word ends in consonant) is added to the end of the word
Adjective	Is always combined with the noun before it, separated by -
Adverb	Is always combined with the verb before it
Preposition	preposition-object
Article	н + (gender mod.) -a/-e/-o + (plural modifier) -s. Put before nouns.

Combinations and Prepositions

Grapheme	Phoneme	Preposition	Use
ө-	/w/	со	in
ig	/dʒ/	со'н	out
лз	/ʌ/	код	to, for, until
-z	/s/	код'ен	of, from, by, since

nt	/n'/

сѣб	over, on
сѣб'ен	under, below
со	left
со'н	right
сосо'н	center, front, forward
сол	with
сол'ен	without

Conjunctions

Preposition	Use
Sca	and
Sco	but
Sce	or
Scu	than
Sci	because
Scon	so

Gender

Gender is only used in nouns that need it, like people or animals. If the gender modifier is not added to a word, it is assumed as neutral. Generic and inanimate things are all neutral.

Type	Construction	Example
Masculine	o is added at the end	но Зан
Neutral	e is added at the end	не Зан
Femenine	a is added at the end	на Зан

Plural

The plural is created by adding -s at the end of the article.

Particles

Particles are added to the end of words in order to give information about them.

Particles follow the order of Negative, Informational, Possessive, Tense

Use Particles before adding “er” or “r” for verbs, except for Tense Particles, which go after.

Type	Singular	Example
Negative	word’n / word’en	Бөд’ен = bad (goodn’t)
Possessive	word’m	З(е)m = my
Verb Tense	verb’or (past) / verb’ol (present) / verb’om (future)	өад’or = flowed
Informational	word’i (used for person, place, subject, time, cause, and process)	Дри = a cause Дри’i = why

Personal pronouns

The gender modifier can be applied here for specification.

Type	Singular	Plural
1st Person	З(o/e/a)	З(o/e/a)s
2nd Person	Т(o/e/a)	Т(o/e/a)s
3rd Person	ЛЗ(o/e/a)	ЛЗ(o/e/a)s

Phrase construction (order)

Subject	Verb	Predicate
Article Noun+adjective	verb+adverb	object	extra information
но Зан’лзас	ser	бөд	Сен’ен
The (masculine) old person	is	healthy	today

Original	Afternoon by ics_de Today the ponds of a rainy spring Dry out on the rooftops of the city Through the warm tongues of the dying sun. He, orange until the last moment, Drags his cloak of light through empty streets And promises to be back soon. But as his hands drift away from me, My body feels the long autumn close: The fog blinds me and the cold shakes me. My sheets are frozen and bruise my skin And I try crawling away in vain, For soon her voice arrives in the night.

	And although painful at first, The dew in the crevices of my lips Becomes so cold it burns, And then so warm it heals.
